

20th May 2010

MasterCraft
BOATS

MasterCraft Pro Wakeboard Tour 2010

The top professional wakeboarders in the world are set to kick off a brand new season of high-flying, rail-sliding, water-sports action, as the MasterCraft Pro Wakeboard Tour opens its 2010 season, on May 20-22, on the waters of Lake Allatoona at Dallas Landing Park in Acworth, Ga.

Acworth is the first of five stops in a series points race for the coveted Pro Tour title. Riders accumulate points based on final placement at each tour stop, with the highest total points-earner taking home the Pro Tour title at the end of the season.

"We're stoked to get the season started," said the defending Pro Tour Champion, Harley Clifford. "Acworth is a great site, the crowd is wild and there's no better place to kick off the Pro Tour."

Throughout the event, riders compete in a series of elimination rounds by performing rail tricks and aerial stunts, while being pulled on the water by the official PWT towboat, the MasterCraft X-Star, at a speed of approximately 25mph. Tricks are scored by a panel of judges, with only the top-scoring athletes advancing in each round until a winner is determined in the finals.

The MasterCraft Pro Wakeboard Tour will wrap-up the event on Saturday evening from 5-8 p.m., with the Main Event. The Main Event will feature Pro Men's finals, a double up contest and a big-air challenge off the kicker.

Some of the top riders competing in Acworth include the defending Pro Tour Champion and 2009 Rookie of the Year, Harley Clifford; Women's Champion, Nicola Butler; and the only rider ever to land a 1080 in a contest, Rusty Malinoski.

For news, videos and results visit www.prowakeboardtour.com